General Announcements

- Upcoming FSLC meeting dates were clarified: March 14, April 4, and May 2.
- Reminder of the Associated Students' Farmer's Market every Tuesday from 10:00 a.m. – 2:00 p.m. A Campus Dining cooking demonstration is held there once a month with free food samples. Faculty asked to spread the word to students, as a higher attendance rate will encourage farmers to continue participating.

New Business

- Library enhancements currently in progress include the moving of the Teacher Curriculum Center (TCC) to the 2nd floor, partnering with Music and Media (M&M) and moving of the Map Collection to the Garden Level of the Oviatt. Renovations will take place in the summer with an expected completion by fall semester 2018.
- The Library is open until 8:00 p.m. on Fridays as a result of student demand.
- The Library noise policy is under review based on the online user survey still in progress.

Guest Presentation: Streaming Media in the Library – Lindsay Brown

- A detailed review of CSUN’s streaming video resources found at <https://libguides.csun.edu/streaming-video>.
- CSUN stopped supporting VHS technology five years ago, although 40 titles remain based on faculty/curriculum needs.
- CSUN’s Kanopy online streaming currently offers 253 titles with a playlist option. Campus Quality Funding allows more selections to be added.
- Kanopy may also be searched via OneSearch. If faculty can’t find a title, the online Video Request Form may be used, which applies to both physical DVDs and streaming.
- CSU+ sourced DVDs may be accessed through the Oviatt’s Interlibrary Loan (ILL) department.
- The L.A. Public Library www.lapl.org provides a wide array of free streaming and learning resources for California residents, including 27,000+ Kanopy titles, Freegal (music downloads), eBooks, and Mango (language learning). Up to five titles a month can be viewed with a current library card (eCards are available).
- Limitations of the CSUN collection include the case of a Netflix series not yet released on DVD or some items that are not available for purchase.
- A request was made to include more resources on the engineering topic.

The meeting was adjourned at 3:07p.m.
