Braswell and Jerro to Fill Void in Athletic Department

A Search Has Been Set for Permanent Replacements for Bubb and Abraham

Braswell has been named administrator in charge of the Athletic Department while the university searches for an acting director.

Jerro, a 1992 Pacific-10 All-Star team member, has been named the acting head coach of the Matador women's basketball team and will oversee its progress during its 1998-99 season, which opened Sunday with an exhibition game against the Portland Saints.

"I have every confidence that coach Braswell and coach Jerro will provide the leadership we need in what has been a particularly trying time for the Athletic Department," Wilson said.

With the encouragement of his fellow coaches, Braswell was willing to fill a temporary void in the department.

"I'm just happy to do whatever I can to help," he said. "This is a very important time for the university and our Athletic Department. As we try to move forward with the goals of our department, people need to know that the student athletes and coaches are working hard every day to bring positive recognition to this university."

Bubb and Brame resigned following the Oct. 27 arrest of CSUN women's basketball coach Michael J. Abraham on campus on federal drug charges. Abraham initially was relieved of his coaching duties and then resigned effective Friday, Nov 6.

Following Abraham's arrest, Wilson ordered an internal inquiry into whether Athletic Department staff members had any prior knowledge of drug allegations involving Abraham. That inquiry indicated that Bubb and Brame were previously aware of such allegations, but felt they could not confirm them and did not report them to senior university officials at the time.

Bubb (left) and Brame (right) resigned their administrative positions on Nov. 3. Bubb will leave the university and Brame will return to her prior status as a faculty member in the Kinesiology Department. Jerro came to the university in July, 1997, as Northridge's second assistant coach. Prior to that, she was the head coach of the girls basketball team at King Junior High School in Berkeley, California.
Jerro represented the U.S. on the women's basketball West Team at the 1991 Olympic Festival and was a member of the PAC-10 All-Star Team that toured Europe in the summer of 1992.

Jerro, who earned her bachelor of science degree in business marketing from Arizona State in 1993, graduated from Cathedral High School in San Francisco in 1988, where she was a four-time all-conference basketball player.

Braswell, who graduated in from CSUN in 1984 with a bachelor's degree in English, came to the university in April, 1996, the fourth head coach of the men's basketball program in the university's 40-year history.

Under his guidance, in 1996-97, the Matadors posted the best season in its Division I history, reaching the Big Sky Conference Tournament championship game, and played before a national television audience on ESPN, as well as playing in three regionally televised games on Fox Sports.

Braswell came to Northridge from the University of Oregon, where he served as the top assistant to head coach Jerry Green.
Michael Meyer Will Study Mixed Marriages in Nazi Germany

Cal State Northridge history professor Michael Meyer has been awarded a Fulbright grant to explore the issues surrounding marriages between Jews and non-Jews in Nazi Germany.

Meyer was one of among 2,000 American educators awarded a Fulbright grant this year. He will be leaving this spring for Germany.

"This is a wonderful opportunity for me," Meyer said. "I am delighted to teach in Germany and to have an opportunity to continue my research."

The Fulbright Program, which was established in 1946 under congressional legislation introduced by the late Senator J. William Fulbright is designed "to increase mutual understanding between the people of the United States and the people of other countries."

The grants are awarded each year to students, teachers and scholars to study, teach and conduct research around the world. Individuals are selected on the basis of academic and professional qualifications, as well as their ability and willingness to share ideas and experiences with people of diverse cultures.

Past recipients include President Fernando Cardoso and First Lady Ruth Cardoso of Brazil; NATO Secretary General Javier Solana; U.S. Senator Daniel Patrick Moynihan; Nobel Prize winner Milton Friedman; historian John Hope Franklin; writers John Updike, Eudora Welty, Joseph Heller; musicians Aaron Copeland and Anna Moffo; business leaders Vitale and Kathy Waldron; and journalists Roger Rosenblatt, Georgie Anne Geyer and Hedrick Smith.

Meyer is an authority on German and European history, in particular Nazi Germany and anti-Semitism. He served as a consultant for "The Leopold Stokowski Era" radio documentary, as well as a music contributor for the "Degenerate Art" exhibit at the Los Angeles County Art Museum. Meyer is author of the book "The Politics of Music in the Third Reich."

Meyer said he is spending this semester doing preliminary research here at CSUN. In March, he will leave for Germany where he will work with internationally recognized German historian Julius Schoeps, head of the Moses Mendelssohn Center at the University of Potsdam, gathering information on Jewish/non-Jewish marriages during that country's Nazi era.

"This is an important area of research within the Nazi realm which has not been fully explored," said Meyer. "It explores mixed marriages and inter-group relationships in a wider cultural framework and has relevance even in this country."
While in Germany, Meyer also will teach history at the University of Magdeburg.

Meyer said he applied for the teaching position because he was born in Magdeburg.

Two Faculty Join 'Who's Who Among America's Teachers'

Two Cal State Northridge professors learned this month they will join a prestigious list of the nation's top teachers as new additions to Who's Who Among America's Teachers, which is coming out later this year.

Donald Neal Wood, professor emeritus of the Radio-Television-Film Department, and mathematics professor Kwang-Nan N. Chow were selected based on nominations by students at the university.

"Dr. Wood has had a 28-year history in teaching, research and scholarship and is genuinely admired by his peers and students past and present," said Judith Marlane, chair of the Radio-Television-Film Department.

'They often come back and specifically thank him for helping them become equipped with the necessary tools for our industry," Marlane added.

Professor Kwang-Nan N. Cow, who has been with the university since 1970, said that he was excited and surprised to find he had been selected for the Who's Who honor.

"I appreciate the fact that the students think I am doing a good job," Chow said. "I enjoy teaching and have always tried to do my best and will continue to do my best in the future."
Campus Welcomes Prop. 1A Victory

Bond Measure's Passage Means More Money for Campus Technology

Cal State Northridge officials joined the rest of the CSU last week in celebrating the passage of Prop. 1A, which will bring about $12.5 million to the university to upgrade campus technology and merge its two corporation yards.

Proposition 1A, which was approved by 62 percent of the voters last Tuesday, allocates $6.7 billion to K-12 public schools and $2.5 billion to California's public higher education systems in the next four years. The Cal State system will get a third, or $832 million.

President Blenda J. Wilson called the passage of Prop. 1A "wonderful news for the public schools and higher education in California." "Prop. 1A money will enable us to deal substantively with overcrowding, unsafe facilities, and technology needs," Wilson said. "By passing this measure, voters have enabled us to provide an environment conducive to effective teaching and learning—allowing us, in effect, to build our youth for the future."

Approximately $5.8 million of CSUN's portion will be technology funds which will be used to expand access to data, voice and video connections in buildings across the campus during 2000-2001, said Mark Crase, the university's assistant chief information officer. "It's a terrific opportunity for the campus," Crase said. "We're going to see some of our technology needs met at this time."

The money will bring campus computer network access to classrooms, labs and other areas that now lack them, he said. CSUN's piece is part of a broader $170 million CSU technology initiative. Northridge will use an additional $6.7 million of its share of the bond to redevelop its corporation yard.

"The idea is to consolidate those operations," said Tom Tindall, CSUN's director of facilities planning. Tindall said clearing the south yard near the student union will improve access to union and Performing Arts Center, while the new and improved facilities near the current PPM offices would streamline operations.

That project, slated for construction in 1999-2000, also could improve the appearance of the campus perimeter along the south side of Halsted Street near Etiwanda Avenue, where the current yard is located, by adding landscaping, street curbs and gutters. For K-12 schools, the measure will provide at least $2.9 billion for new facilities, with local districts required to pay half with local funds; at least $2.1 billion for modernizing existing facilities, with a required 20 percent local match; and up to $700 million for facilities to support reduced class sizes.

NCOD Information

CSUN's National Center on Deafness provides the following Q. and A. for university faculty and staff members to better serve the university's deaf and hard of hearing students.

Q: What if the faculty member wants to discuss the deaf or hard of hearing student's performance in the class with the service provider?

A: Interpreters, notetakers and real-time captionists are not directly aware of the student's performance in the class. If the faculty member recommends tutoring, such services are available through the NCOD. Faculty members should direct their questions about student's degree of hearing loss, language preference, educational history to the NCOD. If the faculty member is concerned or has questions about student's background, he or she can communicate directly with the student (through the Interpreter, or call the student's Counselor at the NCOD at ext. 2099. Any questions regarding Service Providers can be directed to the appropriate department at x2614.
