Biology Professor Chosen for Presidential Mentoring Award

Maria Elena Zavala is One of Ten Individual Educators in the Nation Honored for Mentoring Students in the Sciences

Cal State Northridge biology professor Maria Elena Zavala (right) - who was told as a high school student years ago to take typing instead of science classes - was honored last week with a presidential award for her mentoring work in encouraging minority students to pursue careers in the sciences.

Zavala, a plant biologist who came to CSUN in 1988, was one of 10 individual educators chosen this year to receive the Presidential Award for Excellence in Science, Mathematics, and Engineering Mentoring. The award includes a presidential commemorative certificate and a $10,000 grant to the university to further Zavala's work.

"The university is justly proud of Professor Zavala's well-deserved recognition," said CSUN President Jolene Koester. "She works tirelessly to encourage, educate and expand the horizons of her students, many of whose lives have been transformed by her teaching and personal guidance. I am grateful for her unwavering commitment to our students and the honor she has brought to herself and the university."

"To get this honor was quite a surprise," Zavala said. "When I got my Ph.D. 22 years ago, I was the second Chicano in the country to earn a Ph.D. in botany. There aren't that many of us out there who love to be researchers, teachers and professors. We have a responsibility to show our students that it's possible and help them along the way," Zavala said.

President Clinton established the awards in 1996 to recognize the work of individuals and organizations that inspire and mentor young people from underrepresented groups to succeed in the science, math and engineering fields. Zavala was the only Cal State educator, and one of only two educators from California this year, to receive the individual awards.

Ten institutional awards also were given, including one in California to Humboldt State University, part of the Cal State system, for its Indian Natural Resources, Sciences and Engineering Program.

"We must draw upon our nation's full talent pool to maintain U.S. leadership across the frontiers of scientific knowledge," President Clinton said in announcing the awards. "We honor these individuals and institutions who have contributed so much through their mentoring efforts to achieve greater diversity throughout the ranks of our scientific and engineering workforce."

Zavala and the other recipients were honored during a Thursday, September 7 ceremony in Washington, D.C., hosted... by the National Science Foundation, which administers and funds the awards. Zavala and the other recipients also participated in a two-day conference on "Broadening Participation in the Scientific and Technological Workforce Through Mentoring."

Zavala learned of the award through a letter from NSF Assistant Director Judith Sunley that said the "honor recognizes your outstanding achievements and contributions to mentoring. Award recipients serve as exemplars in the national effort to develop more fully the nation's science, mathematics and engineering workforce."

The NSF administers the awards program for the White House's Office of Science and Technology Policy. The program recognizes that mentoring and role modeling are important to the development of talent among minorities and other underrepresented groups in the science, mathematics and engineering fields.

Jim Dole, chair of CSUN's Biology Department, called Zavala receiving the award "absolutely stupendous." "If anybody deserves this award, she does. She has worked her heart out for many, many years and built one of the strongest programs for minority students in the country," Dole said.

Dole said Zavala's work in building the Biology Department's Minority Access to Research Careers (MARC) and Minority Biomedical Research Sciences (MBRS) programs has been "fantastic." Zavala has brought in more than $5 million in grants to the university to support both programs, he said.

"We have a lack of people of color who seek Ph.D.s and are in academic positions. We have to try to provide opportunities for students so that they learn that they can succeed and learn the sciences and math, and can go on and get graduate degrees," Zavala said in explaining her involvement in the programs.

Dole said the response was overwhelming when he solicited letters to nominate Zavala for the award. "Every one of her former students I talked to said that, of course, they would write in her support. Many of them said, 'For the first time, I can do something for her.' That's a testament to how they perceive her."

In addition to the White House award, Zavala also is being recognized this month by the Tech Museum of Innovation in Silicon Valley as part of its National Hispanic Heritage Month celebration. She is one of 10 Latino scientists being honored by the museum for their "remarkable contributions to science and technology."

In a recent interview, Zavala recalled being told by her high school counselors to take typing instead of science and math classes because Latinos did not become scientists or mathematicians. "I was lousy at typing, but I loved math and science. I'm glad I didn't listen to them. I love what I do," Zavala said.

CSUN Launches Nation's First Combo Krispy Kreme/Cyber Cafe

Addition to Renovated Matador Bookstore Expected to Increase Customer Traffic

Celebrating the start of the new school year, Cal State Northridge has opened the first combination Krispy Kreme Doughnuts/Cyber Café in the nation, giving students and university employees a chance to surf the Internet while they snack and sip.

The popular doughnut store opened on the first day of fall classes Aug. 28 in the university's Matador Bookstore along with a Cyber Café seating area. That area includes six Internet-connected Macintosh computers and a counter where customers can connect with their own notebook computers.

"The University Corporation is thrilled with our new Krispy Kreme Doughnuts," said Tom McCarron, executive director of the CSUN auxiliary organization that opened the store. "It's a wonderful addition to our bookstore and foodservice complex, and another enhancement to student life on campus."

"This would be the first time we have done anything like this Cyber Cafe," said Vic Turner, executive vice president of Great Circle Family Foods, the Southern California franchisee of Krispy Kreme Doughnuts, Inc. "The CSUN Krispy Kreme also is the largest and most complete store in a university setting."

The CSUN store's complete menu of 15 different types of Krispy Kreme doughnuts will be supplied fresh throughout the day from Krispy Kreme's nearby retail store in Van Nuys. The CSUN location also will serve Krispy Kreme coffee, lattes, cappuccinos and collectible merchandise, along with Alta Dena milk products.

Paula Gonzalez, a senior journalism student, said the new Krispy Kreme on campus will fit into students' hectic lives. "As long as Krispy Kreme sells cold milk, coffee or orange juice, I'm sure many students like me, who don't have much money or time, will be happy eating a doughnut on the way to class," Gonzalez said.

The CSUN Krispy Kreme also may become a model for future efforts to expand the popular doughnut chain's presence in universities around the country. A film crew working for the company shot footage of the new CSUN store for use in a future marketing package aimed at promoting university locations. Even Krispy Kreme Doughnuts Chairman/CEO Scott Livengood stopped by to tour the new location prior to its opening.

"The CSUN location is unique. It has features no one else has right now," said Turner, the Great Circle Family Foods executive. In addition to the Cyber Café feature, the CSUN Krispy Kreme is the only one located in a university bookstore (other campus locations tend to be in food court areas), and the only one with an outside walk-up window, Turner said.

Because of its university setting, the CSUN Krispy Kreme is operating different hours from the chain's seven Southern California retail outlets. CSUN's location, meant to serve the university community, is open from 7 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. Monday to Thursday, and from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Fridays.

Pricing for the Krispy Kreme doughnuts at CSUN is 75 cents for glazed and 80 cents for assorted varieties. CSUN's full Krispy Kreme doughnuts assortment includes such doughnut treats as chocolate iced custard filled, cinnamon apple filled, glazed sour cream and powdered blueberry filled.

The Krispy Kreme opening at CSUN coincides with an extensive renovation of the university's Matador Bookstore complex. "The bookstore is already a hub of campus activity, and we fully expect the new Krispy Kreme Doughnuts and Cyber Café to further energize the atmosphere here," McCarron said.

The CSUN location is the third Krispy Kreme outlet in the San Fernando Valley, along with the Van Nuys retail store, the chain's second Southern California site opened less than a year ago in September 1999, and a smaller location in the Pacific Theatres' Winnetka All Stadium 20 in Chatsworth.

The seven Krispy Kreme retail stores operated directly by Great Circle Family Foods (GCFF) in Southern California have sold more than 25 million doughnuts since January 1999. The CSUN location is different in that it will be run by the university, but receive its Krispy Kreme doughnuts from GCFF.

The Krispy Kreme Doughnuts company, founded in 1937 in North Carolina, has 154 stores in 27 states. The company sells an estimated 3.5 million Krispy Kreme doughnuts daily and more than 1.3 billion a year.
Northridge Alumnus Receives Prestigious Wilson Fellowship

Jarahn Hillsman is First CSUN Recipient of Award and Only Student Selected from California This Year

A Cal State Northridge graduate has been awarded a prestigious Graduate Foreign Affairs Fellowship by the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, becoming the only student in California this year and the first-ever at CSUN to receive the grant that pays for a two-year master's program.

Jarahn Hillsman of CSUN's Urban Studies and Planning Program, one of 10 undergraduate winners from across the country, will be attending the first year of a master's program this fall in international public affairs at Columbia University in New York City. The home universities of other fellowship recipients this year included Harvard, Georgetown, Brown and Howard.

"It is my goal to work in Africa. I hope to address issues such as AIDS, debt relief, government corruption and the fight against poverty," Hillsman said. "This fellowship will provide me with an incredible opportunity to attend graduate school and prepare for a career at the same time. I became interested in foreign affairs and the fellowship program when I interned with the U.S. State Department in Washington, D.C."

The purpose of the Graduate Foreign Affairs Fellowship is to prepare outstanding students from all ethnic and social backgrounds for careers as foreign service officers in the U.S. State Department. The award covers full-time tuition and expenses for two years in a master's program in public policy, international affairs or similar fields.

"We in Urban Studies are quite thrilled that Jarahn Hillsman is the first student at CSUN to receive this prestigious fellowship award. Jarahn is a very delightful and promising student," said Tim Dagodag, professor and coordinator of CSUN's Urban Studies and Planning Program.

Hillsman, a Los Angeles resident, attended CSUN for the past five years and graduated in May with a bachelor's degree in urban studies and planning. He also participated in CSUN's international exchange program at the University of Zimbabwe for one semester and was elected as a member of Phi Beta Delta, an honor society for international scholars.

Applicants for the Graduate Foreign Affairs Fellowship must be U.S. citizens, have a minimum 3.2 grade point average (based on a 4.0 scale) and have received a bachelor's degree. The Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation—an independent, nonprofit organization—seeks to maximize human potential by awarding education fellowships in various fields.
CSUN NonProfit Fair to Encourage Community Service

The Career Center is hosting a NonProfit Fair on Mon., Sept. 25, giving students a chance to become acquainted with organizations that hire in the nonprofit sector and to speak with recruiters about jobs, internships, volunteer and service learning opportunities.

The event will be held in the Northridge Center of the University Student Union from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. All CSUN students are invited to attend. Students can use this important opportunity to develop significant connections related to their academic majors.

Students will have the opportunity to distribute their resumes and speak with representatives from more than 50 organizations, such as Valley Family Center, Northridge Hospital, Recording for the Blind and Dyslexic, M.E.N.D., the LAPD's Jeopardy Program, El Nido Family Centers, Peace Corps and many others.

"I am really looking forward to the NonProfit Fair," said Irina Ovakimian, a senior psychology major. "I'm trying to find organizations that counsel teens and young adults and get involved in helping them. I also want some practical experience in a clinical setting so that I can increase my chances of being accepted into graduate school."

After the NonProfit Fair, CSUN faculty are invited to a lunch and panel discussion between agency representatives and CSUN faculty and staff on creating partnerships between the community and the university. RSVP to Nikki Maxwell at x3260.

The week prior to the fair, the Career Center is offering prep workshops for students on "How to Work the NonProfit Fair." These workshops will offer tips from counselors on what to expect and how to approach employers. Workshops will be Mon., Sept. 18 from 11 a.m. to noon, and Wed., Sept. 20 from 3-4 p.m.

This year's Cal State system budget includes $2.2 million to extend and improve CSU community service and service learning programs. At CSUN, President Jolene Koester has made strengthening the university's connections with the community one of her top priorities.

A recent CSU report found more than 135,000 Cal State students perform a total of 33.6 million hours of community service and service learning annually. That is a minimum wage value of about $193.2 million-a-year.

In addition, a new CSU trustees resolution requires that each campus ensure all students have the opportunity to participate in community service/ service learning deemed appropriate by the faculty and endorses campus efforts to make service an expectation, condition or requirement for the undergraduate education experience.

For more information, contact the Volunteer Program in the Career Center at x3260.
FYI

For Your Information publishes announcements of public meetings, notices, events, deadlines, classes and courses of interest to the university community. The deadline for submitting items generally is noon on Monday, one week before the issue appears. The deadline for the Sept. 25 issue, is Mon., September 18.

We strive to include all items submitted by deadline occurring during the two-week period until the next issue. Items further in advance will be run on a space-available basis. Submit future items by e-mailing them to pubinfo@exec.csun.edu, sending them to mail drop 8242 or faxing them to (818) 677-4909. E-mail is the preferred method of submitting.

Public Meetings

Foundation Board of Directors

Meets 6 p.m. Wed., Sept. 20, at the University Club. fmi and reservations, x2150.

Notices

Our Deepest Sympathy

The campus extends its sympathy to Edythe Margolin (Child Development) and her family on the loss of her husband, and Marti Cox (University Student Union) and her family on the loss of her father.

Events

ITR Open Forums
CSUN faculty and staff are invited to attend either of two open forums to review and discuss the technology service disruptions that recently have affected the university. The forums will be held on Tue., Sept. 12 from 12:30-2 p.m. in Business Building 1133, and Wed., Sept. 13, from 5-7 p.m. in the Engineering Auditorium. Spero Bowman, associate vice president for academic resources and CSUN's chief information officer, will lead the discussions. The management team of Information Technology Resources (ITR) also will be in attendance. Each forum will provide information on the status of ITR services, and time will be provided for a Q&A session.

Parent Support Group

The Family Focus Resource Center, in collaboration with the North Los Angeles County Regional Center, announces a new parent support group for families of children with developmental disabilities from birth to 10 years of age. Meetings will be held from 10-11:30 a.m. Tue., Sept. 12 and 26, at the Family Resource Center in the College of Education, room E109-D. The group will be facilitated by Dorothy Ross, licensed marriage, family and child therapist.

CELT Programs for Faculty

The Center for Excellence in Learning and Teaching is offering the following programs to faculty members during the fall:

- Peer Coaching Orientation: 12:30-2 p.m. Tue., Sept. 12, in the Teaching and Learning Center in Sierra Hall, 4th floor, room 437. Louis Rubino (Health Sciences) will teach a practicum lesson.
- Teaching Style and Learning Style: 12:30-2:30 p.m. Tue., Sept. 26, in the Teaching and Learning Center in Sierra Hall, 4th floor, room 437. This program will focus on the use of the Myers Briggs Type Indicator to facilitate the learning process.

Geology Lecture

The Geological Sciences Department and the Geology Club are sponsoring a lecture titled "Site Characterization: Without It Nobody Moves in Construction" at noon, Wed., Sept. 13, in Science 1231. Presenting will be Allen Hatheway, an international geology consultant.

Brown Bag Film Series

The Marilyn Magaram Center will host its Brown Bag Film Series on Wed., Sept. 13, and Thu., Sept. 14 in Science 5, room 524. The film is titled "Miracles on Your Plate." Wednesday's showing is from noon to 1 p.m., and Thursday's is from 12:30-1:30 p.m.

Accounting Recruiting Day

The Career Center is sponsoring Accounting Recruiting Day from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Thu., Sept. 14, in the USU's Grand Salon.

Volunteer Opportunities

Students are invited to join the Volunteer Council. Meetings are held at 1 p.m. every Wednesday in the Career Center's Volunteer Program office. Council hotline, x4106, or visit www.csun.edu/volunteer or VolunteerTrak in the Career Center. The following are upcoming volunteer opportunities:

- California Coastal Clean-Up Day, sponsored by Heal the Bay, Sat., Sept. 16. fmi-(800) COAST-4U.
Day of Caring, sponsored by United Way. Help beautify the community and make the San Fernando Valley sparkle. 8 a.m. to noon Sat., Sept. 23. fmi-x3260.

Philosophy Lecture

The Philosophy Department is hosting a lecture titled "Thinking About Things" featuring philosophy professor Michael Jubien of UC Davis. 3-5 p.m. Fri., Sept. 15, in Jerome Richfield Hall, room 344. fmi-x2757 or visit www.csun.edu/~philos33.

Equity/Diversity Candidate Forums

Faculty, staff and students are invited to a series of upcoming forums to meet the three candidates seeking to become CSUN's new special assistant to the president for equity and diversity, replacing Jeanette Mann who has retired.

The special assistant is responsible for the coordination of the university's equity and diversity programs. The selected candidate will advocate for advancing CSUN's ongoing commitment to equity and diversity, and provide campus leadership in sustaining a working/learning environment free of discrimination and harassment.

Each of the three candidates will host an open forum during which campus community members can ask questions about their "vision" for the university regarding advancement of equity and diversity. The forums will be from 3:30-5:30 p.m. in the Balboa Room of the University Student Union.

Prior to each forum, the candidates' resumes will be available for review in the President's Office. The candidates and the dates of the open forums are as follows:

- Thu., Sept. 28: Valton Henderson, associate to the director of the Office of Equal Opportunity and Affirmative Action, University of Minnesota system.
- Thu., Oct. 5: Alan Comedy, assistant to the president for the Office of Affirmative Action and Minority Affairs and Progress and Outreach, Bridgewater State College in Mass.

Vice Presidents' Reception

The President's Office is hosting a welcome reception for Mo Qayoumi, the university's new vice president for administration and finance, and Dick Tyler, the new interim vice president of university relations. Mon., Sept. 18, 4:30-6:30 p.m. in the University Club's main dining room.

Parent Information Session

Student Outreach and Recruitment Services is presenting "CSUN Parents' Knowledge for College" from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Wed., Sept. 20, in Student Services Building, suite 190. Learn what parents need to know to prepare their children for college admission. Attendees are encouraged to bring their lunch. fmi or to reserve a space, call x2967 or e-mail outreach.recruitment@csun.edu.

Delia Rudiger Retirement

President Jolene Koester and Provost Louanne Kennedy invite the campus community to a retirement reception honoring Chief of Staff Delia Rudiger from 4:30-6:30 p.m. on Thurs., Sept. 21, at the University Club.

A memory book will be presented to Rudiger at the reception. Notes, letters, cards and photos to be included in the book may be submitted to Joseph Antunez, e-mail joseph.antunez@csun.edu or mail drop 8200.

In lieu of any personal gifts, Rudiger has suggested donations to the university. Contributions can be made payable to The CSUN Foundation for The Jerome Richfield Memorial Fund, The Donald E. Bianchi Endowment, or the Women's Hate Crimes Speaker

Judy Shepard, whose son Matthew was attacked and killed in 1998 because he was gay, will speak about what people can do to make schools and communities safer for everyone. The Shepard case helped focus national attention on hate crimes. This event is being presented by the University Student Union's Programs Council. 1 p.m. Fri., Sept. 22, at the Performing Arts Center.

Graduate Teaching Workshop

Applications are available in the Office of Graduate Studies for the Graduate Teaching Workshop. The workshop will be held on Sat., Sept. 23, and is open to all students, particularly those interested in improving their teaching skills for TA work and those interested in teaching at the community college level. fmi-x2138.

On-line Research Classes

The Oviatt Library offers walk-in classes that give an overview of computer indexes and search techniques. Each session is about 45 minutes and is held in the Oviatt Library, room 102D. The schedule is as follows:

- Mon., Sept. 11: 11 a.m., 3 p.m., and 6 p.m.
- Tue., Sept. 12: 11 a.m., 4 p.m., and 6 p.m.
- Wed., Sept 13: 11 a.m., 3 p.m., and 6 p.m.
- Thu., Sept. 14: 11 a.m., 4 p.m., and 6 p.m.

Women's Self Defense Course

The University Student Union, University Police and the Student Health Center are sponsoring the 4th Rape Aggression Defense (R.A.D.) systems women's self-defense course from 5:30-9 p.m. Classes will be held Mondays and Wednesdays, Sept. 11, 13, 18, and 20, at the Satellite Student Union, Fernandeno Room. The course covers 14 hours of personal protection information and hands-on basic training designed to develop and enhance the options of self-defense for women. The class is limited to 20 women. The cost is $10 plus $12 for the participant manual. CSUN students pay for just the manual. fmi-Yolanda Abundiz, x2201, or Lt. John Smither, x2764.

New Employee Orientation

Every employee new to the CSUN campus should attend an orientation workshop from 8 a.m. to noon Tue., Sept. 12, in Student Services Building 535A. The workshop will cover a campus overview, employment and benefit information, the compensation system and public safety and parking information. Reservations are required. fmi-Carol Hallenbeck, x3820.

Career Center Workshops

The Career Center is offering career workshops to assist students with career decisions and the job search, resume and interviewing strategies. Reservations are preferred for all workshops. To sign up, call x2878. The schedule is as follows:

- Internship Insights: 1-2 p.m. Tue., Sept. 12, and 10-11 a.m. Wed., Sept. 20. This one-hour workshop provides students with a step-by-step guide to link their internships to a successful career path.
- Resume Results: 10-11 a.m. Wed., Sept. 13. Learn techniques and strategies for creating a targeted resume. The workshop will provide sample resumes and critiques, as well as tips on cover letters and thank-you letters.
- Job Search for Teachers: 3-4:30 p.m. Mon., Sept. 18. This workshop includes information on resumes, interviews, placement files, portfolios, salaries and the current job market.

Stress Management Workshop

The Office of Human Resource Services is offering a workshop titled "Managing Stress at Home and Work" from 1-2 p.m. Mon., Sept. 18, in Student Services Building 535A. The workshop will present stress management techniques to help identify your stressors and develop a more balanced perspective. Reservations are required. fmi-Carol Hallenbeck, x3820.

University Counseling Services

University Counseling Services is offering groups/workshops and services for the fall semester to meet varying student needs on career/major choices, stress and time management, abusive family history, eating disorders, and self-esteem and relationship problems. Free confidential groups/ workshops are available. UCS is open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mon., Thu. and Fri., and 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tue. and Wed. in Student Services Building, room 520. fmi-x2366 or TDD x7834.

The schedule for group/workshops is as follows:

- Effective Learning Workshops: Two five-week sessions are offered. The first session meets from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Tuesdays beginning Sept. 19. The second session meets from 1-3 p.m. Wednesdays beginning Nov. 1. The Academic Performance Enhancement Experience (APEX) provides students with the opportunity to learn effective ways to learn by improving reading, note-taking, time management and test preparation techniques.
- Women's Support Group: Meets 5-6:30 p.m. Tuesdays, beginning September 19.
- Conflict Mediation Training: 9 a.m. to noon Thursdays, Sept. 28 through Oct. 26, in the Student Services Building, room 520. This workshop helps people resolve their disputes. Training includes lecture, discussion and role-playing. Those interested in a brief overview of the training methods are welcome to attend the first meeting. Those interested in in-depth training may attend all five sessions.

Ceramics Classes

CSUN faculty, staff and students and members of the Valley community can learn how to throw cups, bowls and vases on the electric wheel or build sophisticated hand-built pots in classes this fall at the Ceramics Lab in the University Student Union. These small, non-credit classes will be taught in the afternoons and evenings for eight weeks beginning Mon., Sept. 18. Registration is underway. fmi or to enroll, x2798.

Navigating Change Workshop

The Office of Human Resource Services is offering a workshop titled "Personal Strategies for Navigating Change" from 8 a.m. to noon Wed., Sept. 20. Participants will explore skills and develop strategies that help them deal with change. fmi-Carol Hallenbeck, x3820.

Defensive Driving Classes

The Office of Environmental Health and Safety is coordinating defensive driving classes on Wed., Sept. 27, in the University Student Union, Reseda Room, and Tue., Oct. 17, in the USU Balboa Room. Class times for both days will be from 8:30 a.m. to noon and again from 1-4:30 p.m. The classes review safe driving techniques through video, lecture, test and personal experience. CSUN's Powered Cart Safety Program will be included in the training sessions. fmi-x2401.

Youth Public Speaking Course

The Communication Studies Department is sponsoring the Communication for Youth Institute Program for students in grades 7 through 12. 9-11:30 a.m. on six Saturdays beginning Oct. 7 in the Speech Communication Building, room 224.
